

Adriaan Lammertsma

Short Biography:

Professor Adriaan A. Lammertsma, PhD, has been active in nuclear medicine since 1978, starting at the University Medical Center Groningen. His focus has been PET research since 1979, when he joined the MRC Cyclotron Unit, Hammersmith Hospital in London. Apart from a sabbatical year at UCLA, Los Angeles, he stayed in London until 1996, and then moved to the VU University Medical Center in Amsterdam. Over the years his research focus has been the development of tracer kinetic models for quantitative PET studies with applications in neurology, cardiology and oncology. Since 2020 he is senior advisor for the PET programme at the University Medical Center Groningen. In addition, he is editor-in-chief of Frontiers in Nuclear Medicine. Adriaan Lammertsma was the 2012 recipient of the Kuhl-Lassen Award from the Society of Nuclear Medicine and the 2015 recipient of the ESMI Award from the European Society of Molecular Imaging. He is co-author of over 600 peer reviewed papers.